Commanding Officer's Message

by LCOL Daniel Bergeron, CD

How time flies by is commonly heard, especially as one gets older. I am finding that time is not only flying by, it is, as many Trekkie fans would say, it goes by at warp speed. Jack Lee reminded me that it was that time again to reflect upon the events that have gone by during the past six months and to offer a glimpse of what is coming.

Since my last message from June, the Regiment stood down its parading for the summer. At one time, that would mean some time to take a break for those who had been caught up on their professional qualification training, but this is no longer the case. As the Reserves are now responsible for a large part of their own training, those who are caught up in their trades qualifications are actually teaching those who are not during Reserve Summer Training. During the month of July, some of our Regimental personnel participated in Exercise ULTRA NIAGRA, the annual Brigade competitive load-bearing march that is conducted in the Niagara area, providing communications support. July and August, Toronto hosted the Pan Am and Para PanAm games. Although we were not formerly tasked, the nature of the event was such that it was on our minds, and we all experienced what such an event can do for the daily commute. Also, the month of August saw the Reserves joining members of the Regular Force in Petawawa for Exercise STALWART GUARDIAN 2015, our annual military concentration. A computer-aided exercise (CAX) was held in the first week where some of our Signallers did some magic in getting our Land Command Support System (LCSS) computerized software and hardware suite going for our staff officers. The first week also saw the bulk of our Signallers undergoing “stands training” in order to refresh/hone some of their skills in prep for the second week, the Field Training Exercise (FTX). I was fortunate to have the opportunity to visit during the FTX along with the RSM. Maybe the RSM and I will plan on attending the “Stands training” next year as I think we need to “hone” our navigation skills. It was very interesting to watch some of our troops conducting a night move, especially observing their backing skills during black-out driving. I believe that everyone got some good training out of this exercise, especially since it was a two-week event, which kind of teaches lessons of its own.

The end of the training year also marked the departure of some of our long serving staff at the Regiment. Our Operations Officer, Capt Daniel Zhang left us for better skies in the Ottawa region. I understand that he did find a “busier” job at CJOC. Our Chief Clerk, Sgt Jessica Miller was posted to CFRC Toronto. On behalf of us all, I thank Daniel and Jessica for their dedication and selfless service.

From the Editor's Desk

It is hard to believe that almost 6 months ago I was finding myself editing the spring edition of the eCommunicator. Since then, we have enjoyed a fabulous summer filled with numerous events and wonderful weather.

Both military and cadet organizations and the associations who support us and constitutes this family have been busy with summer taskings, parades, BBQs, historical restoration projects and if you are lucky, a little R&R.

Now that the holiday season is fast upon us I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone Season's Greetings and a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year on behalf of everyone who devotes their time on making this publication available.

Letters to the Editor

Sir (Ken Lloyd), much like the ops I've served under your command (recup and abacus), you have my full support. I may not physically be able to crawl under the hood and help prep the truck but after spending a decade with the Sigs, I can surely come up with a story or 2 :-)

*Did you know?
... wearing of the blue and white armet was authorized for dispatch riders and linemen in 1926.*

What an informative issue Jack! The pictures, as always, are great.

One question - have you considered a format change, now that it's all online? What I mean is possibly setting things up so that it's just a continuous scroll down to finish an article, instead of starting the COs article then rolling down past the beginning of another article to finish the first one.

One typo - Mr. Mistak's church would not be "St. Cashmere's" (a type of expensive sweater!), but St. Casimir's. If you wish, I could volunteer to do proof-reading for your next issue - it often helps to have another fresh pair of eyes to check things over.

Hope you're enjoying the summer - I'm certainly enjoying retirement.

Message from Capt. Ric Rangel-Bron, CD

All:

As you know, our dear friend Major Rick Leswick has been fighting a courageous battle against pancreatic cancer for the last ten months or so.

While the battle isn't over yet, this horrific disease has the upper hand. While Rick has not by any means given up the fight, he is very weak.

Rick's body may be changing but his mind and heart is still his own. We have chatted about many of you, his love for the Cadet programme, and, of course, his love for Karina.

We have shared a few grand laughs, and a few tears, but in the end his spirit and smile let me know that he is still the Rick we have all known and loved for so many, many years.

Karina, well...she is amazing. She is holding up as she is dedicated to keeping Rick comfortable. While I don't know how she is doing it, it is evident that her love for him has given her the strength she needs at this moment.

At the moment, Rick is not able to receive visitors, and it is difficult for them to take calls.

Please keep Rick and Karina in your thoughts and prayers.

Regards,

Capt. Ric Rangel-Bron

Joining us, is Captain Alan Lui from ADM(IM) in Ottawa, who has been assigned as our Regimental Adjutant, while Sgt Wendy Dalcourt from Petawawa, is our new Chief Clerk. We welcome you both to our Regimental family.

Shortly after the CNE in September, our Stand-up activities were held. I am glad that we planned to hold our annual Force Test during our first weekend. That is now behind us. The fall saw our soldiers refresh their Individual Battle Task Standards, first-aid, driver-wheel, C7 rifle, etc. A busy fall period of training will continue in December. I continue to be impressed with the commitment of our soldiers and officers towards making this kind of training happen, with minimal loss of time and resources.

On the 26th of October, we held an informal session where we introduced our new HLCol Ken Lloyd to the soldiers and officers on hand. We were fortunate to have HLCol Alex Moseanu and thanked him for the five years he had been in the position. Because the time was too short between the time I was notified of the approval of Ken Lloyd as HLCol and the 25th of October, the date that the term commenced, a formal ceremony that will properly thank Alex Moseanu for his service as HLCol and to properly introduce Ken Lloyd as our new HLCol, is being planned for the weekend of 30-31 January 2016. A dinner will be held on Saturday the 30th while a parade will be held on Sunday. More details will be provided as they become available.

November was probably the busiest month of our training year. I was able to attend the Remembrance Day ceremony at York Cemetery with the unit on Saturday the 8th of November. With the non-availability of our traditional setting at the Church at Leaside, RSM Mallia and Padre Brown worked on an option to join 32 CER as part of their contingent at the York Cemetery. Not only was the ceremony a success, both Signals and the Engineers share their origins prior to the creation of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, so it was appropriate that we honoured our veterans together on this special day. As the 32 CER had a traditional blessing for their soldiers, Padre Brown quite adeptly created, and at the same time established, a new traditional blessing for 32 Signal Regiment that will be published in her column. Although we had a reception following the ceremony, many came to me recommending that we retain some kind of dinner in the future. Unfortunately I was not able to attend the November 11th ceremony at Bracebridge, but from what I understand, it was a success and our presence was very much appreciated.

During this period we were all saddened with the passing of several members of our Regimental Family. We will remember Bill Askin, a former member of 8 Signal Regiment, who passed away on 13 July; the passing of Pte Lydia Nicoll's husband in September; the passing of Bandsman George Walford in October; the passing of Sgt Leandro Mawbey-Puglia's mother and the passing of Maj (ret'd) Hal Buller's father in November. May they rest in eternal peace and may those left behind find comfort in knowing that the Regimental family cares deeply about their losses.

Upcoming is our traditional Regimental Christmas Dinner on Saturday, 12 December, where we will continue to share in the spirit of the season with our soldiers, Bandsmen and our Regimental Associates. Do not forget our annual Levee on New Year's Day, which will be my first participation. I hope to see many of you at both of these occasions. Of course, as previously mentioned, we will be holding a change of appointment ceremony between HLCol Moseanu and HLCol Lloyd on Saturday and Sunday, January 30 and 31.

The final piece of information that I would like to share in this forum is that 32 Signal Regiment will have a new standing task of supporting 2 Canadian Mechanized Brigade Group (CMBG) Headquarters and Signal Squadron in Petawawa with a formed Signal Detachment, a Signal Duty Officer and a Section Commander as part of the Canadian Army's initiative called OP REINFORCEMENT. This initiative will see Regular Force and Reserve Force members training together during the year in formed elements in preparation of potential employment together. Unlike other similar initiatives of the past, the intention is to employ and/or deploy formed elements as opposed to individual augmentees on operations, whether domestic or expeditionary. The advantage will hopefully be with better trained soldiers who will have grown together prior to being tasked.

Thanks once again to Jack Lee for the work he does in keeping us all informed, and in conclusion I would like to wish everyone the best during the Holiday Season and upcoming New Year.

From the Regimental Sergeant Major

by CWO Marcel Mallia, CD

Mr. Lee has been after me for weeks to give him something for the eCommunicator, and I've been racking my brain to pass something that is relevant to him. Our CO has dealt with what the Regiment is up to, and what is coming our way, so not wanting to duplicate I was looking to veer in a different direction, and as you would have it, the Brigade Sergeant Major send me something that caught my eye, and funny bone ... But at the same time so true, and fitting ... It more or less reads as follow...

~~ Sergeant Major of the US Army Daniel A. Dailey doesn't pull any punches when he's talking to his fellow senior non-commissioned officers.

Dailey, who has been the Army's top enlisted soldier since Jan. 30, has 10 leadership tips he often shares with them, particularly those preparing to become sergeants major.

"Despite what you've experienced in the past, a sergeant major's job isn't just to find uniform deficiencies. It's not just to ensure everyone has matching PT belts and make sure everybody stays off the grass.

Your job is to lead soldiers, to ensure they're trained and ready to fight our nation's wars, and bring them home again, so you may get them ready for the next adventure. Everything you do should be focused on that, and we'll be OK."

Dailey's top 10, in his own words:

No. 1: Yelling doesn't make you skinny. PT does.

If you're not out there saluting the flag every morning at 6:30, you can automatically assume your soldiers are not. Soldiers don't care if you're in first place. They just want to see you out there. This is a team sport.

No. 2: Think about what you're going to say before you say it.

Never regretted taking the distinct opportunity to keep your mouth shut.

No. 3: If you find yourself having to remind everyone all of the time that you're the sergeant major and you're in charge, you're probably not.

That one's pretty self-explanatory.

No. 4: You have to work very hard at being more informed and less emotional.

Sergeants major, I'll put it in simple terms: Nobody likes a dumb loudmouth. They don't.

No. 5: If you can't have fun every day, then you need to go home.

You are the morale officer. You don't have to be everyone's friend, but you do have to be positive all the time. The sergeant major is the one everyone looks to when it's cold, when it's hot, when it's raining, or things are just going south. Your job is to keep the unit together.

No. 6: Don't be the feared leader. It doesn't work.

If soldiers run the other way when you show up, that's absolutely not cool.

No. 7: Don't do anything - and I mean anything - negative over email.

You have to call them. Go see them in person. Email's just a tool. It's not a substitute for leadership. It's also permanent.

No. 8: It's OK to be nervous. All of us are.

This happens to be my favourite. It came from my mother. My mom always used to tell me that if you're not nervous on the first day of school, then you're either not telling the truth, you either don't care, or you're just plain stupid. [Being nervous] makes you try harder. That's what makes you care more.

Once that feeling is gone, once you feel like you have everything figured out, it's time to go home, because the care stops.

No. 9: If your own justification for being an expert in everything you do is your 28 years of military experience, then it's time to fill out your Release papers and end your military experience.

Not everything gets better with age, sergeants major. You have to work at it every day. Remember, you are the walking textbook. You are the information portal. Take the time to keep yourself relevant.

No. 10: Never forget that you're just a soldier.

That's all you are. No better than any other, but just one of them.

You may get paid a little more, but when the time comes, your job is to treat them all fair, take care of them as if they were your own children, and expect no more from them of that of which you expect from yourself." ~~

We can read above and substitute any of those to fit every rank, or position we fill while in CAF, so with that in mind, as the RSM my message to you is "Thank You".

You have supported us for another busy, and sometimes troubling year, but with the great staff we have, coupled with the great support from our Regimental Family, we are emerging on the other side of the 2015 calendar year with glowing reports about our Unit, but more so, about our great soldiers and their capabilities.

Thank you, and hope to see you all soon.

Unit Naming Conventions

by Capt Stu Briggs

In mid-May, Lieutenant-Colonel Bergeron decided on new names for the Regiment's component parts, and these new names were announced to the soldiers of the Regiment at the stand-down barbecue in Borden at the beginning of June. The purpose of renaming the Squadrons emerged during the previous training year in anticipation of the change of command. With officers and senior non-commissioned ranks preparing ceremonial events, and researching unit history, it became apparent that an opportunity was being missed to celebrate and perpetuate the rich identity of the Regiment's component parts. The Regimental Sergeant-Major was also keen to establish a new identity that unites the former elements of 700 (Borden) Communication Squadron and 709 (Toronto) Communication Regiment into a single team. Simply having the Squadrons named for their geographical locations generated a sense of separation and division. In order to accomplish new unit naming conventions, we set out to compile historical research into a set of options, and to develop an appreciation of the preferences of the serving members of the Regiment.

Historical research into the units that are perpetuated by 32 Signal Regiment offered many possibilities. Since the founding of the first predecessor unit in 1907, the components of the Regiment have had many names: No. 2 Signal Company, "A" Corps Signals, 8th Signal Regiment, the Toronto Signal Regiment, the Canadian Women's Army Corps, and 2nd (Armoured) Division are just some examples. Additionally, there were many symbolic elements of the shared history that might be appropriate for Squadron names, as well as important historical personalities associated with the Regiment. Importantly, the Signals conventions were taken into account – especially that sub-units in Canadian Army Signals use single digits (1, 2, 3) while Troops use phonetic letters (Alfa Troop, Bravo Troop, Charlie Troop, etc.). The following were just some of the options compiled:

- 8th Squadron (in commemoration of the 8th Signal Regiment in Toronto – 1950-1964);
- 2nd Squadron (in commemoration of the 2nd Signal Regiment in Toronto – 1946-1964);
- 1 Squadron "The Depot, RC Sigs" (after the original home of Signals, and depot at Borden – 1923-1938); and
- 1 "Conover" Squadron (the former CO and Commander of the Signals Training Centre in Borden during the Second World War).

A questionnaire was distributed in Borden and Toronto in order to gather data on the opinions among the ranks, and the following trends emerged:

- The majority of soldiers preferred the convention of numbered Squadrons;
- A sizeable minority of soldiers preferred the names 700 Squadron and 709 Squadron in commemoration of the former units;
- Soldiers were keen to capture some aspect of historical significance, but there was little commonality on which option was best; and

Last Six Months

The last half of 2015 has been very busy - I have been doing a great deal of traveling that has hampered my ability to attend many of the Regiment's events such as: Summer BBQ; informal hand over from HLCol Alex Moseanu to HLCol Ken Lloyd; and Remembrance Day Parade/Lunch. In addition, my wife and I are moving house which, after 15 years in our current house, is a major undertaking! Nevertheless I have been able to stay in touch with the Regiment's affairs through active communications with LCol Bergeron and Capt Ric Rangel-Bron.

During August, I drove to Camp Petawawa with RSM Mallia to visit our troops deployed on Exercise Stalwart Guardian, the annual summer military concentration. Most of my time was spent with honoraries from the other 4 Division regiments - we exchanged ideas about our respective roles with our units and the type of support we can bring to bear. I came away with some new thoughts which I will share with our CO in the new year.

During our two days in Camp Petawawa, BGen Thomas briefed us on the health of the Division and scope of its activities. I had not realized how large the Division was: spread across 46 Ontario communities and comprises more than 13,000 men and women, including

- 5,880 Regular Force members
- 5,980 Reserve Force members
- 620 Canadian Rangers
- 1,140 civilian employees.

He also introduced us to Operation Honour and the initiatives that the Canadian Armed Forces are taking to eliminate sexual harassment within the military. I trust that this initiative from the Chief of the Defence Staff has resonated with all of our uniformed men and women. Its success depends on every one of us making a conscious effort to change our actions and vocabulary which could be deemed threatening or demeaning.

Finally - I had lived in Camp Petawawa as a teenager. So before we headed back to Toronto, RSM Mallia indulged me by taking me past my old home and school - you can only imagine the memories that rekindled!

Change in Honorary Lieutenant Colonel

In November, HLCol Alex Moseanu, CD will retire and be replaced by HLCol Ken Lloyd, CD. Plans are underway for an appropriately formal hand-over ceremony in mid-January. Alex has had an amazing 42 year career with the Canadian Armed Forces, including 16 years associated with our regiment. On behalf of everyone in our regimental family, we thank him for his service.

Of course, Ken is no stranger to 32 Signals. His military career began in 1994 with Territorial Army in the UK. HLCol Lloyd picked up his roots and moved to Canada and took employment with the Halton Regional Police Service. After completing the police training he joined 709 (Toronto) Communication Regiment (now the 32 Signal Regiment) and eventually became the Commanding Officer from 1999 to 2002. Ken was also the Commanding Officer of 705 (Hamilton) Communication Squadron (now known as 31 Signal Regiment) from 2005 to 2009.

My Travels

As many of you know, in 2014 I was a member of the largest expedition ever mounted north of the Arctic Circle to ski to the north magnetic pole. Although my travels in 2015 were not nearly as strenuous, they were still on the exotic side: in January, we trekked in the Patagonia area of Argentina and Chile and then in October, we spent time in the Peruvian Amazon jungle.

During both trips, I tried to imagine the Spanish army, mounted on horses and heavily armoured, trying to conquer the indigenous natives - the altitude (in the case of the mountains) and the thick vegetation (in the case of the jungle) would have made this very difficult. In fact it was most likely the diseases that the Spaniards brought with them, not their military tactics that ultimately caused the natives to succumb.

As we approach the end of the year, I want to wish everyone a joyous holiday time and a healthy 2016. I look forward to seeing you at our annual Christmas lunch.

HCol Jim Leech, CM

HCol Alex Moseanu, Adc CD

"Tempus Fugit" ...How time flies. Here I am, after three years and an extension my time is up as the Honorary Lt Colonel. What an honour it was to be the Honorary of both Borden and Toronto Squadrons of 32 Signal Regiment. Thank you for that honour to all the members of the unit, The Band, Cadets and of course Jimmy and Associates.

October 2015 marks my 42 years of service with the Canadian Armed Forces.

I started as a Guardsman with the Canadian Grenadier Guards in Montreal and ending with my appointment as Honorary Lt Colonel of our illustrious Regiment.

The officer following me, is a stalwart gentleman of renown, no other than our former CO; HLCol Ken Lloyd CD, with many years of service and a vast background from the British army and Hong Kong Police as well as Her Majesty's Customs. I am sure you will support him in all his endeavours promoting the Regiment.

I will continue my important and exalted position as Master Chef for Jimmy and Associates, a strong supporter of The Toronto Signals Band, not forgetting the excellent Regimental Flag Party. I will also remain with the Regimental Advisory Council under the guidance of HCol Jim Leech.

Finally in closing, LCol Greg Stasyna if you require a poster size photo of myself, I will love to hand you one, autographed of course!!! All others are welcome to an 8x10 version at no charge (you too, Capt Ric Rangel- Bron).

LCol Daniel Bergeron, a word of advice: this Regiment and its members is a one of a kind; they will follow you in to battle when needed.

SPIRITUS MANET

Alex Moseanu, LCol (Ret'd)

HLCol Ken Lloyd, CD

Walking back into Fort York and seeing so many familiar faces brought back memories of shared experiences, of deployments for Ice Storms and Y2K; of Stalwart Guardians in Petawawa as well as the challenges when Fort York was used as a Homeless Shelter.

It is a privilege to be invited to serve as the Honorary Lieutenant Colonel and to be part of the continuing story of Signals in Toronto. It really feels like coming home.

In preparing for this appointment I sought the advice of many previous Honoraries as well as HCol Leech and HLCol Moseanu. The guidance was clear and unequivocal that my focus will be the continuing story of Signals in Toronto and Borden including the members of 32 Signal Regiment, and the Regimental Family in particular.

My aim will be to foster unit esprit de corps; sustain community support for 32 Signal Regiment; and maintain liaison with other units, organisations and honourees.

These duties will be achieved in 3 main areas of focus:

- 1) Service to the Serving members:
 - Assistance with job search and letters of reference;
 - Assistance from outside experts e.g. mediation services, government form filling, real estate and other advice;
 - Providing a source for Signals and regimental history and unit identity;
- 2) Service to the Associates:
 - Attending parades and events as required by the CO and Honorary Colonel.
 - Maintain liaison with other organisations i.e.: Communication and Electronic Branch; Hamilton Signals Association; overseas signals liaison;
 - Maintain liaison with Regimental Associations i.e. Jimmy and Associates; Toronto Signals Band; Hong Kong Ex Serviceman's Association;
 - Sustain a network of support for our Signals veterans and family members;
 - Take the Signals story into the Community through displays; presentations and demonstrations in schools; Long Term Care Homes and other organisations.
- 3) Service to Youth
 - Support the Regimental Cadet units;
 - Develop and sustain a school education programme through the Vintage Signals Team.

These 3 areas of focus are already provided through the Hamilton Signals Association. The Vintage Signals Team has already taken the story of Canadian Signals into the Canadian National Exhibition as well as into Toronto schools and soon into the Long Term Care Homes.

When Sir Robert Borden instituted the position of Honorary Colonel, he stated that the job of the Honoraries is to be the guardians of Regimental traditions and history, promoting the unit identity and ethos and being an advisor to the Commanding officer. The Canadian Forces added that the Honorary works behind the scenes and provides needed support that would otherwise not be available. Therefore, during my tenure in office it will be my intent to fulfill these aims by 3 areas of focus: serving our members; our associates and our youth. If you wish to know more, please contact me at:

Padre's Corner

by Capt Audrey Brown

This summer, I found a small piece of paper that many months ago had been tucked into a book. It was a left over reminder of my BMOQ course. My name was written on the front and on the back read four simple words—duty, loyalty, integrity and courage. The Pillars of the Canadian Forces.

In 1973, Author EB White was asked for his opinion regarding the bleak future of the human race. His response was simply, "As long as there is one upright man, as long as there is one compassionate woman, the contagion may spread and the scene is not desolate. Hope is the thing that is left to us, in a bad time. I shall get up Sunday morning and wind the clock, as a contribution to order and steadfastness." (30 March 1973 Letter to Mr. Nadeau).

I often use that quote when I try to describe to people what duty means. It perfectly describes what we strive to do. We make the world a better place by doing our job, whatever that may be, however grand or insignificant, we do it to the very best of our own ability and we take pride in our work. Again, White noted "Hang on to your hat. Hang on to your hope. And wind the clock, for tomorrow is another day."

Loyalty is simply when someone has your back and you have theirs—through thick and thin. True loyalty is tested by time and circumstance. "A friend is someone who walks into a room when everyone else is walking out." - Gary Moore. We show our loyalty to one another, when we help each other and ask for help when each of us is in need.

Integrity is about character. Not just the rules you live your life by or the things that you don't do but by what you do when you mess up. Sometimes the greatest integrity we can show is when we answer the question "Did you do this?"—with a simple "Yes". We all make mistakes but our ability to stand tall and admit to them is true integrity. Integrity is staying true to who we are no matter who is in the room with us. "It is the final test of a gentleman—his respect for those who can be of no possible service to him" (William Lyon Phelps, quoted in Golden Book Magazine, July 1935).

Courage. Perhaps the most significant and least understood. Courage is not about being afraid or unafraid. It is about what we do with our fear. "Courage to me is doing something daring, no matter how afraid, insecure intimidated, alone, unworthy, incapable, ridiculed or whatever other paralyzing emotion you might feel. Courage is taking action....no matter what. So you're afraid? Be afraid. Be scared silly to the point you're trembling and nauseous, but do it anyway!" (Richelle E. Goodrich, Smile Anyway).

May all that we seek to do in our Regiment, in Our service and in our daily lives be based on these four unwavering pillars - duty, loyalty, integrity and courage.

Blessed Be, Padre Brown

From the Regiment Remembrance Day context. Thus the (very unofficial) prayer of the 32 Signal Regiment was produced.

"Creator God, You communicate your truth to us in every age, giving light and understanding to our human condition. Grant that we, the members of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, may be open to receive, so that our lives will communicate truth.

The Signal Prayer (unofficial) - submitted by Padre Brown

This year, our Remembrance Parade was at York Cemetery in conjunction with 32 CER. As we sought to work together with the Engineers to blend into their ceremony, we faced a simple challenge. The Engineers have a prayer, and so we needed a Regimental Prayer. Best intelligence revealed that there was once a prayer for the C and E Branch, but it has long Sharpen our skills that we may faithfully transmit the messages entrusted to us.

We offer ourselves to serve and our country, and to promote peace in our world. Amen".

Interestingly enough, I discovered that the 32 CER's prayer was penned by their Padre, Phil Ralph who faced the same challenge, years ago.

been removed from official channels. A Google search revealed a Royal Corps of Signals Prayer in very traditional Christian format, as well as an Australian one, with more modern language. A quick review of both prayers revealed promise, as the words were very conducive to slight changes that made the prayer more appropriate for our multi-faith

Remembrance Day – St. Dominic's School, Oakville

Hello All:

As part of our Outreach to our Veterans on Remembrance Day we attended St Dominic's School in Oakville.

They held an amazing Remembrance Service which included a number of veterans from Bronte Legion. Our veteran was Hugh Patterson, a Dispatch Rider from 2nd Div Signals from Toronto.

He landed with the 2nd Div Sigs on Juno Beach in Normandy, one of 24 Riders of the Dispatch Platoon. He saw service through Holland, the Scheldt, The Bulge and into Germany. He is the last of the original 7 Dispatch Riders of 2nd Div Sigs who survived the War.

Hugh allowed us to share some of his stories with the school assembly. The audience comprising of parents, teachers and students chuckled at the story of the dispatch rider test, where the bike was dismantled and then the blindfolded rider was timed in rebuilding his bike. They were silent when hearing of how headquarters would often move and how he would need to find them by crawling forward into a wood or copse to find the vehicles and feel the tyre treads to see whether they were an allied or enemy. Depending on his assessment Hugh would then retire back to his bike and enter normally or get away to try another wood. At the end of the short presentation, Hugh received an enthusiastic ovation, was presented with a plaque and a booklet that the students had written about him and other veterans they had interviewed.

At the end of the ceremony, the class of Mr. John McPhail, who was responsible for this Veteran project asked Hugh for a group photograph, which is attached to this email. In the picture are George Stal; Hugh Patterson and Ken Lloyd. For our Veterans, Velox Versutus Vigilans.

- Soldiers generally disliked the options which commemorated specific personalities from the Regiment's history, such as McKee, Conover, etc.

With those observations in mind, we approached the Commanding Officer with three potential solutions. The Regimental Sergeant-Major was very clear that 700 Squadron and 709 Squadron were not good options, and most senior staff agreed that these options went contrary to the intention of forming a new unified identity in the Regiment. The Commanding Officer listened to the advice of the senior staff and based his decision largely on the preferences of the serving soldiers.

Hermes and Athena – a painting by Bartholomaus Spranger, 1585.

The results are as follows:

1 Squadron (ATHENA) in Borden is named in commemoration of the mascot of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, the Greek goddess of war Athena. This reminds us of the historical origin of the Squadron as a filter centre for the Canadian Women's Army Corps from 1962-1964, and readers should also note that the Owl of Athena was the symbol of 700 (Borden) Communication Squadron for the same reason.

2 Squadron (2nd Signalling Company) in Toronto is named in commemoration of the founding unit of the Regiment in 1907 – the 2nd Signalling Company. This element was commanded by the legendary Elroy Forde, and thirty-six signallers from this unit marched to war in August of 1914.

Support Troop (The Depot, RC Sigs) is named after the original home of Signals, and the depot at Camp Borden from 1923 to 1938. Support Troop has elements at both locations – Fort York Armoury and the 1 Squadron lines at CFB Borden.

The Commanding Officer has directed that the Squadron numerals will be used universally, and that the nicknames can be used internally. In the meantime, Regimental Headquarters is making arrangements to have official mailing addresses and records amended to reflect the new names. We look forward to celebrating the shared history of both Squadrons in 2017 – the 110th anniversary of the Regiment!

History of Annual Warriors' Day Parade CNE

The Warriors' Day Parade is a unique and spectacular event that includes the colour, sounds and traditions of our Canadian Armed Forces as well as the recognition of those who served and are serving today. Since 1921, the Parade has provided an opportunity to celebrate our military history and victories. For participants and spectators, it is an opportunity to show deep appreciation for the priceless gift of freedoms given to us by our veterans and those brave men and women presently serving in the Canadian Forces.

Participation in the Parade is open to military, para-military marching units and bands, veteran contingents and military-themed living history re-enactors.

This year our Toronto Signals Band won two parade awards. First prize of the Flag and Colour Party was awarded to the Flag Party and second prize to the Band for Brass and Trumpet Bands. Congratulation to the Band.

Junior Ranks Mess Committee

Message from the Mess Committee

Since the last edition of the Communicator, the 32 Signal Regiment Junior Ranks Mess Committee has been extremely busy. Earlier this year in April 2015, the Junior Ranks Mess hosted a successful regimental formal. We had a fantastic turn out with a four-course dinner and dance at the Woodbine Banquet Hall hosting over 100 guests. Thank you to everyone who attended and made the event a great success.

With the conclusion of the capstone event, it was time to pass on the torch to the next elected committee. The Junior Ranks Mess recently concluded their annual election for the new team.

The new executive of the 2015 - 2016 Junior Ranks Mess consists of:

President – Cpl Jacky Mao
 Vice President – Cpl Huy Nguyen
 Treasurer – Cpl Ron Zhou
 Secretary – Cpl Jaanus Anja

We are proud to have another strong cohesive team to represent the Junior Ranks. The new team is currently looking into new and exciting venues to host the next JRs Regimental Ball. In the new-year (2016) we will start posting details of the upcoming event and ticket sales will start as early as January. But before we get there, Christmas is right around the corner. There is a lot of planning left to do and there is still a lot of fundraising to do. Having said that, stay tuned for the upcoming JRs Annual Christmas Raffle. Like we do every year, we have tons of amazing prizes.

Hosting a formal is a lot of work and it can be financially challenging. We will need your support! If you are interested in sponsorship opportunities, please reach out to the PMC, Cpl Jacky Mao at jackymaojm@gmail.com. Please help us make this event one you won't forget. Thank you in advance for your support and we look forward to hosting you again at our premier event.

709 Signals Cadet Corps

by Capt Steven Morgan,
 CO, 709 Cadets

The 2015/2016 training year is off to a great start for 709 Toronto Signals Cadet Corps. We continue to train at St. Thomas Aquinas school on Wednesday evenings from 1830 to 2130, with select training nights also held at Fort York Armoury. The cadets, who number 90, range in age from 12 to 18 are distributed among five training levels.

The corps continues to strengthen and is expected to exceed 100 by Jan 2016. We also welcomed some new staff to our ranks, OCdt James Kelly, Civilian Instructor Chris Allen and Civilian Instructor Nikie Martin.

The Annual Cadet Review was held at Fort York Armoury on Monday, June 1st where the Cadets demonstrated what they had learned throughout the training year on the parade square, and awards were presented to top performing cadets. The change of review night to a Monday was a huge success and the corps had the largest number of guests to date. The Reviewing Officer for the 2015 Annual Review was LCol Greg Stasyna CD, former Commanding Officer of 32 Signal Regiment. The Toronto Signals Band provided musical support to the corps, and as always did an amazing job. Those who had the opportunity to attend were treated to excellent demonstrations of the corps' abilities both on and off the parade square. We are very fortunate to have the support of the Regimental family. Please mark your calendars for this year's annual review which is scheduled to take place on Monday June 6, 2016.

As our training year came to an end in June, many of the cadets spent two to six weeks of their summer on training courses at Cadet Summer Training Centers in Blackdown and Connaught. Cadets attended Drill and Ceremonial, Expedition Instructor, Marksmanship Instructor, Basic Expedition, Sports and Fitness Instructor, Basic Sports and Fitness and General Training courses. The cadets performed well and two of our cadets received special recognition. MWO Rebecca Verlaan achieved the highest female fitness level at Leadership and Challenge which took place at the

Our annual bivouac training exercise was held on the weekend of September 25-27 at Base Borden. The weather was perfect for moving the classroom into the outdoors, with field craft and survival being the training theme for the weekend. The cadets constructed improvised shelters, and slept in hooches during the night. Saturday evening at MP Alt concluded with a bonfire where the cadets had the chance to roast marshmallows and hot dogs over an open fire. The cadets were also treated with the rare opportunity to observe the Super Moon that took place that weekend. The cadets awoke early Sunday am to dekit and hike back to Blackdown where they honed their marksmanship skills on the Air Rifle Range. The training weekend was a huge success.

Every year the Army Cadet program brings together Silver and Gold Star cadets from across each region to attend an annual expedition training weekend. On October 16-18, Gold Star cadets from the corps travelled to Kelso Conservation Area in Milton to develop their expedition skills. Upon arrival, the cadets were split into teams with cadets from other corps. Each team spent the weekend mountain biking and hiking on the Niagara Escarpment, working together to prepare kit, cook meals, set up and tear down biv sites, and navigate from point to point. The cadets had excellent weather for training and were treated both mornings to a heavy frost on the ground when they awoke at 0600 hrs.

Remembrance Day always plays an important role in the cadet training year. On October 31, thirty cadets assisted Royal Canadian Legion Branches 66 and 75 with their Poppy Campaign. The RCL needed assistance due to their aging membership and the cadets were able to help out our community partners. The corps proudly marched with 32 Signal Regiment in the Remembrance Day Ceremony at York Cemetery on November 7th with 50 cadets participating. The parade was well attended and the cadets were honoured to be part of the event. On November 11th, for the very first time, 6 cadets from 709 participated in the Sunrise Remembrance Day Ceremony at Prospect Cemetery, which included many dignitaries and received wide coverage by the media. The Corps looks forward to joining Royal Canadian Legion Earlscourt branch 65 and Prospect Cemetery at next year's event.

The Royal Canadian Military Institute asked the Corps for our support at their annual Family Day on November 15. The six cadets supervised the children of the members who watched the Santa Clause Parade from the balconies. The cadets were privileged to be given a tour of RCMI and sample some excellent food. A good time was had by all.

In addition to the regular training plan, this year 709 has assembled two teams as part of the optional training program. Our air rifle marksmanship team, coached by CWO Dave Lowry and CI Nick Czernkovich, practice on Monday nights at Fort York Armoury. The shooting team will participate in the Zone Shoot and the Tartan Shoot. New for 2015 is the drill team, under the direction of Lt Sandoval and OCdt James Kelly which will participate in a regional competition this winter. Good luck to both teams!

Associations

Jimmy and Associates

Hello, my name is Hal Buller. I am a retired member who served with 709 (Toronto)

Communication Regiment and 32 Signal Regiment (among other units). I am the newly elected president of Jimmy and Associates (J&A), the Toronto Signal Regiment Alumni association. Some of you may be saying "I know that, silly", but there may be others, such as new serving members of the regiment who may not. They are included in my target audience for this article as well. Indeed, they need to become familiar and comfortable with J&A so that membership is a natural progression. Anyway, herewith is my first article as the J&A president.

One keystone event on our annual calendar has come and gone for this year. I am speaking of our annual reunion/picnic. As usual it was held at the homestead of Lou Lombardi. Also as usual, many people contributed to a successful event. I would very much like to express my appreciation to everyone who voluntarily put so much time and effort into the success of this function. The cost of this function rose noticeably this year, mostly as a result of the new stricter interpretation of "provision of service" regulations. Hopefully our annual fee for participation will be stable at this new level for a while again.

Something that we brought forward during the picnic was discussion about the uniforms of the flag party. First, some basic info. Members of the association have for many years provided volunteers, dressed in historical dress uniforms, as a Flag Party. The correct term is "Flag Party" and not "Colour Party", as I was recently schooled in, because our unit has never been awarded colours. This all volunteer Flag Party provides an important element in the conduct of a formal unit parade. Anyway, the current set of uniforms we have are hand me downs, passed through several generations, that are showing their age. The gender mix of our group is also more representative of today's times, so the all male pattern uniforms of old are not an ideal fit. We have therefore embarked on a fundraising campaign to allow us to purchase replacement uniforms. At a minimum cost of $500.00 each, for nine to twelve sets, we will need a few dollars. We have defined the desired replacements as new "Dress Blues", or "Patrols", that are consistent in appearance, quality of construction, proper fit, and gender appropriate. If anyone has ideas on how to grow this fund, by all means speak up.

In past years the next item on the association's radar would have been a Christmas season luncheon. That item is no longer on our planning calendar, because of the combined unit Christmas serving members dinner that includes the extended regimental family. So another important item on our radar then becomes the next Garrison Ball in 2016. The annual Toronto Garrison Ball is where the military community invites the public to come out for a formal evening of dinner, dance, and companionship. There is strong participation from the military community, as well as a significant draw to the public. It is our regiment's turn to conduct and host this annual event. We are all needed to carry the workload to produce this event, and to make this a memorable showcase of the Signal Corps in the Canadian Armed Forces.

I would like to make an honourable mention to our sister association the west,

Hamilton Signals Association. Having served with both units, I am a member of both associations. Much to my pleasure, we are working well together whenever and wherever possible. One example of this is the CNE display. The visual signals team of the Hamilton Signals Association has been asked for the second year now to help mount a historically accurate display of Signals use in a First World War trench in conjunction with Veterans Affairs. Several members of J&A provided valuable manpower to staff this onerous undertaking. Well done, and thank you. We also participated in the city of London's Doors Open festival by manning a display within the RCR museum in Wolseley Barracks. See:

I want to also draw every one's attention to the new website of:

<http://cmcen.ca/>

This initiative is one that shares info from within the entire branch and across all Signals associations across Canada.

Thank you.

Toronto Signals Band

This summer, the band had the privilege to perform in Hamilton for the Pan Am Soccer game on July 12, 2015. We performed during the half time of the Canada vs. Brazil game. Our next gig was the Warriors Day Parade on Saturday August 22, 2015 at the CNE followed by a performance at the armouries. Nothing like being in full uniform on a hot humid day. All our hard work paid off as the Toronto Signals Colour Guard placed first and the Band placed second in their respective categories for the 94th Warriors' Day Parade competition.

There are two parades before winter is upon us at Humbercrest School and the Remembrance Day Parades. Humbercrest Public School was celebrating their Centennial year and The Toronto Signals Band was asked to kick-off their event with a parade on Saturday September 26th. The Band will be looking forward seeing the members of the Regiment for the Remembrance Day Parade on Sunday November 8th.

Next up is the Holiday Season. That means the Band will be busy bringing in the Jolly well-nourished guy in the red suit to various locations around the GTA!!!

Next year will mark the 90th Anniversary for the Toronto Signals Band. We will be hosting a Weekend to Remember

Event. It will take place September 23 to 25, 2016 at the Courtyard By Marriott Hotel in Brampton. The weekend event will include a Dinner/Dance with open bar and a Farewell Breakfast along with special pricing for rooms. For further information or to RSVP to this amazing event please e-mail us at torsigns90@gmail.com.

The Toronto Signals Band is always looking for new members so if you know anyone who is interested please help and spread the word. We meet on Monday nights at Fort York Armouries from 1930 to 2230.

Toronto Signals Band Mascot - Angus

Introducing Angus, the Toronto Signals Band official mascot, an 8 year old, 120 pound, St Bernard cross.

Angus joined the Band in April 2010 and his first official appearance was on April 12 the same year as he proudly marched in the Toronto Beaches Easter parade. Since then Angus has marched with the Band in numerous Canada Day parades, Easter parades and Christmas parades where Band members can look to him for a quick sip of liquid warmth from his brandy keg. This year he had the honour of being the first dog to march as a member of a military band in the annual Warriors Day parade held at the CNE in Toronto.

Since joining the Band in addition to the public parades Angus has also been an invited guest at the Band's annual Children's' Christmas Party and was on parade at the recent Change of Command Ceremony at Fort York Armouries. He also enjoyed some delicious steak at the annual Jimmy and Associates BBQ held on Aug 8th this year.

When not on duty with the Band Angus works as a St. John Ambulance Therapy Dog, something he has done for 6 years, making weekly visits to long term care facilities in both Ajax and Oshawa. He also works weekly with some young public school students in Ajax who have been diagnosed with various learning disabilities. Once each month Angus also visits a facility in Ajax that provides support to young adults living with Down Syndrome, Multiple Sclerosis, Muscular Dystrophy and Autism. In a typical month Angus puts in an average of 40 – 45 hours of Therapy Dog work. He also does one off visits to Health Fairs, dog related events such as Bark in the Park and local universities to calm and relax students and staff during exam time. He also mentors new dogs and their handlers wishing to enter the SJA Therapy Dog program.

Angus is a very large and very loveable dog who never seems to tire of all the well-deserved attention he gets whether on parade with the Band, working with St. John Ambulance or just chilling out at the dog park. He is definitely one of a kind.

THE SIGNALS MOBILE MEMORIAL PROJECT: LINE TRUCK

“She runs like a dream”. Six hours down the highway and she was still running, we have a Line truck. Every Line truck I had ever seen always looked like rust and green paint tied together with wire. Ask any Line Crew “What did you do to your truck!” and they would answer, “Our job...we’ve been in the bush!”

The Vintage Signal Team now had its own Memorial Line Truck. This truck is the epitome of the Signals Trade. Wherever this truck goes, heads turn and eyes follow the “green machine”. It is an amazing vehicle to bring the Signals story into schools and Events.

At the Schools and Events, pupils and visitors will experience the thrill of laying line and connecting phones. Our trained volunteers will share the stories of Line crew, especially the tales and memories of those named on the memorial plaque in the cab and in the memorial book. These will especially include stories of Line crew in the Cold War and in Peacekeeping who may have worked in a truck like ours.

We are looking for helpers, builders and kit to make this memorial come alive.

If you wish to know more or wish to help in our rebuild project please contact us at:

THE SIGNALS MOBILE MEMORIAL PROJECT: MEMORIAL RADIO TRUCK

“Does anyone have a manual for this?”

The more we searched the internet for information and twiddled knobs to make the equipment work, the more we realized that the equipment ‘know how’ and stories of the ‘Cold War’ and beginnings of ‘Peacekeeping’ were being forgotten. There were memorials and school projects for the World Wars and Korea but very few reminders to recall how peace was kept, how the equipment worked or the lives of those dedicated to make it work.

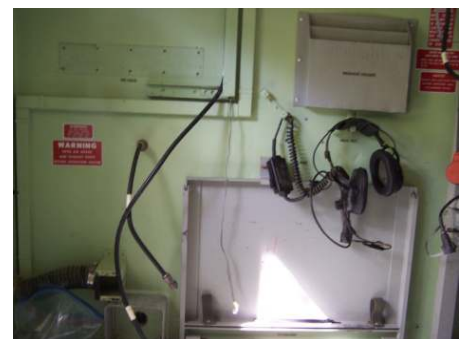

The aim of the Vintage Signal Team is to create a memorial that is mobile and can be taken into the schools and into events. Our visitors can experience the equipment and learn the stories of the Signalers who kept the communications ‘In and working’ throughout the Cold War and the many ‘Peacekeeping’ deployments.

When the memorial arrives at the school or event the visitors will experience a little of a Signaler's life as our trained volunteers show the equipment and share the tales from the memoriam book about the Rad Ops and teletype operators' members whose names will be inscribed on a plaque in the cab.

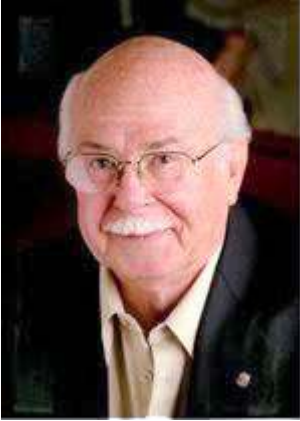

The truck presently under reconstruction is a CRTZ variant. This was chosen because there are fewer members who remember how these trucks operated and it is more difficult to locate both memories and missing equipment. The sooner we complete the memorial, the better experience our visitors will have.

If you would like to be part of this project or have stories and memorabilia to help our truck come alive please contact us at:

In Memory and Obituaries

DAVID ROSS-ROBERTSON

Passed away peacefully at Freeport Hospital, Kitchener, on Sunday, May 24, 2015 in his 82nd year. Lovingly remembered by his daughters Leslie (Michael) and Donna (Steve) and his son Jim (Mary) and grandsons Kienan and Corey Ross-Robertson. "Uncle Ross" will be dearly missed by his cousins Jan (Cec) Omand, Alex Omand, Jennifer (Dane) Bannister and Noah and Gracie Bannister.

David was an award winning artist/designer and illustrator, a writer, researcher, arranger/composer and graphic arts and design college instructor. He was a man of amazing talent. But his real love was drum corps. Beginning in high school he marched with Toronto's Western Tech Signals Cadet Trumpet, the 180th Mosquito Squadron Air Cadets and later the Second Signals Regiment Band as a performer, arranger and instructor. In 1953 he moved to Preston to write music and instruct the Scout House Band. Over the years his involvement in drum corps extended to the USAF Band, the USAF Drum and Bugle Corps, the Yankee Rebels, the Hawthorne Caballeros and eventually, in 1992 his return to the Scout House Alumni Band.

David was a good friend to many, a great story teller, a charming "flirt" and a gentle man who loved to help and encourage others. He will be missed.

GEORGE WALFORD

It is with great sadness that we report the passing early this evening, Saturday, September 12, 2015 of George Walford.

George was a proud member of the Toronto Signals Band and he will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

We send our thoughts and prayers to his wife and family.

Rest in peace dear friend.

BILL ASKIN, CD

Bill Askin was a member of 8th Signal Regiment where he was award the Canadian Decoration. He and Verna are Life members of Jimmy & Associates and are originals of the association. Bill died at the age of 88 on July 13, 2015.

Bill and Verna have been married for 68 long happy years with numerous children and grandchildren.

PETER BULLER

Mr. Peter Buller was born in a Mennonite (German speaking) village in Russia and was a survivor of the Second World War. After the war he ended up in a Displaced Persons camp. This is where he met his wife. Mr. Buller and his new bride were granted immigration papers to Canada.

They raised four boys, and owned a succession of homes (three), in ever newer suburban developments. He did enjoy the presence of his grand children, and then his great grand children.

He was extremely proud of Major Hal Buller's military service, even though the rest of the traditionally pacifist Mennonite community was aghast. He was extremely grateful for the life he was able to establish in Canada and knew from experience and hard exposure what the alternatives were like.

We will remember them.
